DREAM IN COLOR SIZZLES OFF THE PRESSES

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE – September 4, 2007

Annandale, VA - Fueled by the studio's growing notoriety, Dream in Color Foundation (DICF) continues to draw attention in the eyes of the media. This week, DICF appears as the “community focus” in both television and print. First, DICF is featured in the “Good Stuff” section of this month’s issue of "Washington Parent" magazine, on shelves now. Second, on Wednesday, August 29th, Kimberly James, President and Director, was interviewed by Kathryn Falk, of Cox Communications for this month’s “Community Focus” to appear on CNN Headline News. The feature will air at various times throughout the month of September, and a follow up interview has already been scheduled in early October. You don't want to miss these opportunities to catch a glimpse of the Foundation live and in color.

The Dream in Color Foundation is a non-profit organization that strives to diversify both the participation in and appreciation of the performing arts. The program is designed to make arts activities more accessible to culturally and socio-economically disadvantaged youth.
